

EconWorld2017@Paris

Deprivation or Poverty? A Research on Social Exclusion: The Case of Turkey / Yoksunluk Mu Yoksulluk Mu? Sosyal Dışlanma Üzerine Bir Araştırma: Türkiye Örneği

Sibel Selim¹, Pınar Çomuk¹¹Manisa Celal Bayar University, Turkey

ABSTRACT

As in all the countries of the world, the increasing poverty problem in Turkey and the deprivations having in terms of economic, social and political of the people are increasing the importance of the concept of social exclusion. The concept of social exclusion has begun to constitute a social problem for all countries of the world as much as it is economical. Social exclusion, which is thought to have caused social divisions in society, is a complicated process and therefore becomes a difficult problem to solve. Countries that want to deal with this problem resort to various ways of solving their social policies by including social exclusion. In this context, the aim of this study is to examine the concept of social exclusion in Turkey by panel data analysis models in terms of poverty and deprivation and to observe changes between years using data from the Income and Living Conditions (Panel) survey conducted by the Turkish Statistical Institute between 2010 and 2013. According to the preliminary the findings obtained from this study, it is seen that poverty and poverty increase the social exclusion in Turkey and the individuals who exposed to social exclusion faced with social exclusion in the later part of lives of them.

KEYWORDS Social Exclusion; Deprivation; Poverty

JEL C23, D10, D60